

Oh Lord, I pray that the students at our School will see You every day. Through the words and actions of those around them, help the students to see Your love and mercy. Please whisper Your promises into their hearts and help them to recognize the pull of Your will in their lives.

Matthew 5:16, Isaiah 30:21

Father, I pray that You will guard the hearts of our students and teachers alike. Help them to brush off the daily bombardment of sin and evil that comes their way. Please remind them that You do not want their hearts to be troubled but rather, You offer comfort and peace to face each day.

John 14:27, Romans 15:13

Lord, I pray for those children who are struggling with their studies, please bring people into their lives to uplift them and encourage them. Equip their teachers and parents with the skills and patience to help them learn what needs to be learned. Teach them their value comes from You, and protect them from feelings of shame and self-doubt.

Ephesians 4:29, Hebrews 10:35-36

Father I lift up students to You and ask that as they travel to and from school You will place a hedge of protection around them. I pray that they will have clear minds that are ready to learn, and that anything that troubles them will be set aside so they can perform to the best of their ability. I ask that they will understand what a gift education is, and that they will value and honor the gift they have been given.

Father I lift up students to You today and ask that as they travel to and from school You will place a hedge of protection around them. I pray that they will have clear minds that are ready to learn, and that anything that troubles them will be set aside so they can perform to the best of their ability. I ask that they will understand what a gift education is, and that they will value and honor the gift they have been given.

Jesus, I lift up the outcast and the children who feel forgotten and lonely at school. Please comfort them and bring them a friend. Let Your peace guard their hearts and minds, and please keep them safe from those who would try to bully them physically or emotionally. And Lord, please protect their hearts against bitterness and anger towards others.

Dear Jesus, I lift up the students who are missionaries in their own schools.

Please give them boldness to speak

Your name and offer hope to their fellow students. Lord, Your Word says that You will make us fishers of men.

We know there is a great harvest in our nation's schools, and that young people are hurting. Please send Your light and Your harvesters into the schools.

Matthew 4:19

Heavenly Father, I thank You for the students who have recently returned to school. Please give them a desire to study and learn, not only important school subjects, but also Your Word. I ask that You make their minds inquisitive, curious, and creative.

Please give them teachers who appreciate each unique personality and learning style and provide mentors and tutors who will be able to bring out the best in each student.

2 Timothy 2:15

Heavenly Father, I pray that You will instill in our students with a life-long love of learning. Please help them to apply that love to the study and application of Your Word. Bolster their minds to retain the knowledge that they acquire, and plant in their hearts a craving for truth and wisdom. I pray that they will seek Your guidance above all else.

Proverbs 18:15, Proverbs 3:5

Dear Heavenly Father, today I pray that You will protect our students as they ride to and from school. Whether they are with their parents, in a carpool, on the bus, riding a bike, or walking; please watch over them and provide safe travel. Help them to be cautious if they go to school by themselves, and help them to be respectful of those who facilitate their journey to and from school.

Psalm 121:8, Proverbs 3:23

Lord, I pray that You will grant wisdom and prudence to students as new information is presented to them. They may be taught information that is contrary to Your Word, and I pray that they will have wisdom to know how to deal with the conflicting information. Guard their hearts against the lies that Satan would have them believe and remind them daily that they are not alone.

Proverbs 15:2, Joshua 1:5

Jesus, I lift up student athletes and coaches to You today. I pray that You will help the coaches to train and protect their students and keep them from putting unnecessary pressure on their students. Thank You that You have given these athletes a unique talent and ability, and I pray that they will learn to use it for Your glory, the ultimate prize.

I Corinthians 9:24-27

Jesus, I thank You that in the United States of America we have a right to an education. Please instill in this generation of students a thankfulness for the gift of education and help them not to take that gift for granted. Please let their minds soak up the words of their teachers, and may they aim to use their knowledge for good.

Proverbs 18:15

Lord, I lift up the students who have trouble taking tests, or other learning disabilities. I ask that You give them peace and that You will help them to learn and remember information in a way that is best for them. Please calm their hearts and minds as they study, prepare for, and take tests. Help their teachers and parents to recognize their needs and equip them to help these students succeed.
